Lindsay Goldberg has formed a strategic alliance with an affiliate of Poten & Partners, Inc. (“Poten”) to identify and develop private equity investments in the shipping industry and related sectors. The parties will focus on corporate growth opportunities in marine transportation, terminaling and storage, with particular emphasis on the oil and gas industries.

Poten is a leading provider of brokerage and commercial advisory services to the energy and ocean transportation industries. These services include ship and commodity brokerage for crude oil, petroleum products, liquefied natural gas, liquid petroleum gas, naphtha and condensates; project development services for marine transportation and energy infrastructure transactions; capital services for financing of shipping and energy infrastructure projects; and a broad range of consulting services.
